

KL University

Attendance & Detention Policy

Simplified student-friendly guide based on the uploaded university policy page

Quick Summary

Situation	Most programs	BBA-LLB / LLB / LLM
Normal minimum attendance	85% in every course	70% in every course
Condonation range	75% to below 85%	65% to below 70%
Below this level	Below 75%: detained	Below 65%: detained

Important: Attendance is checked course by course, not only as one overall semester percentage.

1. Attendance Requirement

For most programs, a student must maintain at least 85% attendance in every course to be eligible to appear for the Semester End Examination (SEE). For BBA-LLB, LLB and LLM, the stated minimum is 70%.

Condonation for genuine cases

For medical issues or other unavoidable circumstances, the policy allows condonation within a limited range, subject to required supporting documents and departmental approval.

- Most programs: attendance from 75% to below 85% may be considered for condonation.
- BBA-LLB / LLB / LLM: attendance from 65% to below 70% may be considered for condonation.
- The policy states that students below 75% (or below 65% for the listed law programs) are detained in that course and the requirement is not relaxed.

2. When Can Shortage Be Condoned?

The detention section specifies that shortage may be condoned by up to a maximum of 10 percentage points in the following special cases:

- Medical grounds, with a medical certificate from a recognized medical practitioner.
- Representing KLEF, the State, or the Country in extra-curricular or co-curricular activities.

The maximum condonation stated in the policy is 10%.

3. Detention Policy

If a student does not satisfy the required attendance condition for a course, the student is considered detained in that course and is not eligible to appear for that course's Semester End Examination.

B.Arch special condition

The uploaded policy states that B.Arch requires 85% attendance and 50% internal marks for eligibility for the Semester End Examination.

4. Attendance Marks (Only If the Course Uses Them)

The policy says there are no automatic marks for attendance. A course coordinator may allocate attendance marks only if this is included in the course handout in advance and duly approved by the Dean Academics. Attendance can carry at most 5% marks.

Most programs

Attendance	Marks
85-88%	1
89-91%	2
92-94%	3
95-97%	4
98-100%	5
Below 85% (even if condoned)	0

BBA-LLB / LLB (as stated on the uploaded page)

Attendance	Marks
70-80%	1
81-85%	2
86-90%	3
91-95%	4
96-100%	5
Below 70% (even if condoned)	0

The policy further states that, where attendance marks are used, they apply cumulatively to the L-T-P components of a course. For an elective with an X-0-0 structure, the marks apply to theory.

5. Easy Examples

Example 1: A CSE student has 87% attendance in a course. The student satisfies the normal 85% attendance requirement.

Example 2: A CSE student has 80% attendance due to a documented medical issue. This falls within the stated 75%-85% condonation range, but the student must satisfy the documentation/approval requirements.

Example 3: A CSE student has 74% attendance. This is below the 75% lower limit stated in the policy, so the student is detained in that course.

Example 4: A student has 90% overall semester attendance but only 72% in one individual course. Since the rule is course-based, the low-attendance course can still lead to detention.

6. What Students Should Remember

- Aim for at least 85% in each course (or the applicable program-specific minimum), rather than relying on condonation.

- Keep medical certificates and other supporting documents if absence is unavoidable.
- Check the course handout to know whether attendance marks are actually included.
- For official decisions, use the latest university regulations and instructions from the concerned academic department.

Source note: This PDF reorganizes and simplifies the content of the uploaded KL University/KLEF "Attendance Requirement" webpage. It is intended as an easy-to-read guide; the official university policy remains authoritative.